The above, of course, was written in a spirit of pleasantry. In these days there's nothing in a name and if the great Missourion's cogomen was Dubbins, McGinty, Kratzjammer or Smith, we'd be for him just as hard. We have admired this man for years. He is one of those typical American noblemen, who has by his own unaided efforts won the hearts and confidences of the American people Born on a Kentucky farm sixty years ago, he has worked his way surely and steadily to the front by sheer force of intellect, courage and perseverence. He has made good in evrything he has undertaken. He made good as a farm hand, he made good as a school teacher, he has made good as a country editor, he made good as a college president, he made good as speaker of the house. More than that he has made good as a husband, a fother; an American citizen, as a MAN. After forty years in public life no taint of corruption or dishonesty attaches to his name, even in a remote degree. We will have more to say concerning this man in subsequent issues. We are for Champ .-Francis Wigwam.

The Jew is naturally a peaceful and law-abiding citizen, no matter where he happens to reside. He attends to his own business and prospers accordingly. This prosperity of the race is something the Russians in their dense ignorance cannot tolerate, and as a result the Jews have been unmercifully persecuted and robbed. The civilized world sympathizes with these people, but Russia seems too densely ignorant to be influenced by this sentiment. As long as any nation thus persecutes a peaceful class of its citizens, just so long will it remain where other nations were three centuries ago.

The Noted Actor, G. M. Anderson, in S. & A. Feature Drama,

"THE TWO FUGITIVES"

The story told in this truly remarkable picture is based on real facts, which, at the time of its occurrence, caused a sensation. A young man of a noble English family, in his young and reckless days and in a heat of passion, committed a crime. Although followed for years by Desmond, Scotland Yards' noted sleuth, he escapes his clutches and settles in the west, marries and leads the life of an honorable man. But Desmond with an "eye" that never sleeps, at last tracks him to his home. Once more he escapes, and then follows an exciting man hunt, which ends with one of the most pathetic and strangest climaxes ever staged. Decidedly out of the ordinary.

Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair-Dandruff Quickly Removed.

From time immemorial, sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost everyone knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair, for curing dandruff and falling hair, and for making the hair grow.

In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully compounded in perfecty equipped laboratories. The Wyeth Chaemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this sort, calld Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do
